A graduate of the University of Connecticut, Dick was awarded the Bronze Star for service as a US Air Force captain in Vietnam where he was a media relations officer for the 7th Air Force in Saigon.

He has been an accredited member of the Public Relations Society of America (PRSA) since 1978, and is a member of the PRSA Counsellors Academy. Dick is also active in The National Press Club, Washington, DC, the Society of Professional Journalists (formerly Sigma Delta Chi), the American Society of Journalists and Authors, the Foreign Press Association of New York and The New York Deadline Club. He is a public relations advisor to The New England Canada Business Council and serves on the editorial Board of the think tank Boston Global Forum.

Michael Salius, APR

Based in Torrington, Connecticut, Mike serves a client base of national, regional and local clients in the energy, financial services, health care, government, nonprofit and foundation sectors. He has more than two decades of high-level experience and is a recognized authority on strategic public relations. He has numerous professional articles on crisis management, employee communications and merger communications to his credit.

He represents the Islander East Pipeline Company, a Spectra Energy Company, formerly Duke Energy. Mike is highly regarded for having a steadfast, measured approach to media, political and community relations that safeguards Islander East and Spectra Energy interests in the Connecticut marketplace.

As national director of public relations and advertising for Connecticut Mutual Life, Mike helped this old-line life insurer transform itself into a financial services leader. He helped health care entities manage the communications challenges associated with the shift from traditional indemnity insurance coverage to managed care. In the process he worked with doctors' groups, hospitals, drugstore chains, health insurers, public health officials and managed care consultants from Aetna Health Plans, Beacon Prescriptions, Charlotte Hungerford Hospital, CIGNA Health Care, Connecticut Multispecialty Group, Connecticut Department of Public Health, MedSpan, St. Mary's Hospital, University of Connecticut Health Center and Yale-New Haven Hospital.

His work with the Annie E. Casey Foundation helped reshape its community investment strategies to increase accountability. Mike helped the Foundation, one of the largest in the US, shift from making grants to nonprofit service organizations to funding resident- and neighborhood-driven initiatives based on specific goals: growing the income and assets of low-income families and increasing the number of children who succeed in school.

Mike has been an adjunct professor of PR at the University of Hartford and a guest lecturer. He was president of the Connecticut PRSA chapter and was cited as the PR practitioner of the year in 2001. He also chaired Young Audiences of Connecticut for three years and chaired the marketing committee of the Warner Theatre in Torrington, Connecticut. He is a Connecticut native and a 1971 graduate of the University of Connecticut.
